

For Employees

Dear

Hamas' terrorist attack on Israel and the ensuing conflict are dominating the headlines, and they have also affected me personally. Especially for those with family or friends in Israel, seeing image after image of barbarism inflicted on innocent civilians is extremely distressing.

Almost as distressing, however, have been the rallies held all across the globe in support of Hamas. The Jewish community in particular is feeling anxious and isolated, and messages of support are welcome from any source.

I urge you to consider making a statement on behalf of Expressing your solidarity with Israel and condemning Hamas is no empty gesture. You'd be adding your voice to the chorus of Jewish people and their allies who are standing up against evil, and making clear that [company] is true to its values. Also, you'd be showing all members of the [company] team that you support us in times of pain.

Please let me know how you plan to respond. If you have questions, please consider contacting The Florida Holocaust Museum, which offers resources to organizations of all sizes and types in responding to antisemitic violence like we're seeing in Israel and in our community.

Thank you for your support during this difficult time.

Best,
